CLINTON ROGERS' HOUSE Saved from Destruction by Fire by Heroic Efforts.

Only by quick and energetic work Clinton Rogers saved his home, on Wauwecus Hill, from a disastrous fire. The stovepipe which comes up through the bedroom from a room on the lower floor became so heated that some articles of clothing near the pipe caught fire, and this quickly spread until the whole room seemed a mass of flames and smoke when Mr. Rogers discovered it. He attempted to enter the room, but the heat was so intense that he was obliged to give this up. He got a ladder, which he raised to one of the windows, broke the glass and threw in a fire extinguisher. This only seemed to diminish the flames for a minute when they have described. in a fire extinguisher. This only seemed to diminish the flames for a minute, when they burned fiercer than ever.
